49 Superforts Blast Red Korea Airfields

SEOUL (U. S. Superforts blasted Communist airfields within cannon shot of Manchuria and struck at other sprawling targets farther south last night in their third biggest night raid of the war. Forty-nine B29s from Okinawa and Japan teamed up for the strikes, 34 of the big bombers braving heavy antiaircraft fire and Red fighters to hit Sinuiju and Uiju in extreme Northwestern Korea. Fifteen bombers a big supply complex at Haeju, a marshaling yard at Hamhung and Communist battlefront positions.

Low-flying B26 bombers swept over the targets ahead of the Superforts to knock out searchlights and antiaircraft guns. However, searchlights from across the Yalu River, in Communist Manchuria, fingered the dark skies. Far East Air Forces reported the Superforts aimed at the targets by radar and results were not observed. Pilots reported, "We got out of there quick."

A handful of Communist night fighters rose from their big base at Antung, Manchuria, and at least one cut loose at the Superforts with its guns. Most of the others appeared to be making non-firing passes, however. Allied losses, if any, will be announced in a weekly report.

Maj. Jack W. Dollohan of St. Petersburg, Fla., reported seeing a hair-raising missile—or possibly a defective shell or debris blown up from the target.

"It was a ball of fire with a 10-foot tail of flame and it crossed in front of our bomber," Dollohan said.

Hit Communications Center

In addition to blasting the airfields, the Superforts rained 500-pound bombs on a huge communications center at Uiju and repair shops at Sinuiju. Uiju is seven miles northeast of Sinuiju. Both are within two miles of the winding Yalu boundary between North Korea and Manchuria.

The Superforts' greatest night raid of the war was last July 30-31, when 68 hit the Reds. The second biggest was July 11-12, with 65 planes.

On the battlefield, Communist artillery and mortar barrages slammed into Allied positions on the Central Front with Chinese infantry attacking Sniper Ridge. The Eighth Army reported the assault — by some 90 Reds — was smashed before dawn.

A smaller group of Reds probed Heartbreak Ridge on the Eastern Front.

Blood Donors Needed Here Next Friday

An urgent plea was made today by Miss Hazel Linn, secretary of Salem Red Cross Chapter for 100 more donors to contribute blood when the bloodmobile visits Salem Friday, Dec. 5, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the American Legion home.

The quota is 175 pints. Salem people may cooperate by calling the Red Cross office, phone 5231 or 5219. Those calling Saturday may phone 5893.

Anyone between the ages of 18 and 59 may give blood if they weigh at least 110 pounds and are in normal good health. Minors must have the signed consent of parent or legal guardian.

Cost of collecting blood distributed by the Red Cross to military and veterans hospitals in this country, is borne by the Red Cross, the money coming from funds donated in the organization's annual fund campaign.

On an actual audited cost basis, the Red Cross is reimbursed by the department of defense and the Federal Civil Defense Administration for expenses involved in the collection of blood for defense purposes and the national plasma reserve. Miss Linn explains. The Red Cross pays all the cost of recruitment, canteen and motor service involved in these collections, the reimbursement by the two federal agencies being for technical costs of blood collection.

Arson Is Hinted In Mental Hospital Fire

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (U. S. State Fire Marshal C. A. Raper said today the Thanksgiving eve fire which claimed 17 lives at Huntington State Hospital and one of two minor fires at the mental institution Friday night "have the earmarks of arson."

However, he said he wasn't "making any accusations" adding that the "situation will bear watching."

Three more victims of the fire died today. They included Miss Cleon Mitchum, 24, of Bee Three Hollow, and Ruth Barnett, 34, of Huntington, both victims of smoke inhalation.

Mrs. Lettie Farley, 83, died of burns. Fourteen other women and girls died in the fire.

Raper said an attendant, questioned by police and two arson investigators four hours Friday night, had been released.

Dulles, Ike Talk; General To Meet College Heads

Important Statement Promised; No Hint On Korea Trip Given

NEW YORK (U. S. — John Foster Dulles, the designated secretary of state in the forthcoming administration, conferred today with President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower at the general's New York home. Later today, following the conference, Dulles said he will have "an important announcement" which will be issued at Eisenhower's Commodore Hotel headquarters.

Sitting in on the conference between Eisenhower and Dulles was Arthur H. Vandenberg Jr., who will be secretary to the general after he takes office.

Tomorrow, the general meets with three college presidents—his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower among them—apparently to talk about the structure of government. The group includes two men who worked on the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report.

That report, along with others, is being studied with reference to the type of administration Eisenhower is considering. Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire said recently. Adams is to be the President's assistant in the next administration.

In setting a schedule for today and Sunday, Eisenhower broke one of his own rules. Aides reported, recently, that he hoped to keep his weekends free of work from now on.

He planned to take time out, however, to watch the Army-Navy game on television. Eisenhower said he couldn't get to Philadelphia this year.

Meanwhile, there were no further indications about the time of his departure for Korea. All details of the trip are meshed in a tight net of security measures.

Eisenhower probably added to his information about the Far Eastern situation, however, in two conferences yesterday. He was closeted for several hours with Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, and with Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, who wrote the important "Wedemeyer Report" on China and Korea.

Neither appointment was announced in advance. Neither Smith nor Wedemeyer stopped to talk to reporters, as they entered and left Eisenhower's headquarters in a downtown hotel. The press secretary disclosed no information about the subject of the talks.

The "Wedemeyer Report," which was suppressed for several years by administration officials, contained passages predicting a Soviet move against South Korea if American troops were withdrawn. Eisenhower quoted from it in several speeches during his campaign, using the report to bolster his argument that administration "blunders" brought about the war.

Late in the day, Eisenhower also had a conference with Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, former Connecticut congresswoman, playwright and a prominent figure in Republican circles. Smiling brightly, she turned aside a question as to whether the President-elect asked her to take an office in his administration.

"We don't talk about those things," she said.

Mrs. Luce said Eisenhower had requested the interview, but she

Wreckage Found High On Alaskan Snowy Mountain

Located Few Hours After Another Plane Crashed, Killing 36

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (U. S. — The snow-covered wreckage of a giant C124 Globemaster which carried its 52 passengers to their doom Nov. 22 has been found by an educator-flier high on the icy slopes of an Alaskan mountain.

It was located only a few hours after another military transport had crashed yesterday at Tacoma, Wash., bringing fiery death to 36 of the 39 persons aboard.

And it was one of nine military planes with 209 persons aboard which have crashed with disastrous results or disappeared in the great circle from Korea to Montana in the past three weeks.

Official Washington has taken notice of the tragic series, which has wiped out whole families, and ordered an investigation of its Alaska-connected radio navigation aids and communications systems.

Dr. Terris Moore, president of the University of Alaska and a skilled pilot, flew to the Alaska C124 wreckage with a companion whose identity has not been learned. They landed near the mountain's summit in Moore's ski-equipped light plane.

"No Sign of Life" His description of the scene was a terse, "There is no sign of life—no life." The comment, radioed to planes which circled overhead, told nothing more. But Air Force pilots said the wreckage was covered by snow, with only the tail showing.

They speculated that a snowslide occurred after the plane, en route here to Elmendorf Air Force Base from McChord Air Force Base, Tacoma, rammed into Mt. Gannett 1,000 feet below the peak's 9,100-foot summit.

High winds kept Moore and his companion from leaving the wreck scene, but they were dropped supplies to tide them over the night. Meanwhile Air Force rescue officials were studying the feasibility of taking a trail crew in to the crash scene.

Mrs. Ruth A. Busche, 29, of Columbus was killed and her husband, George S., 29, was injured in a two-car mishap which occurred at 5:45 p.m. Friday on Route 62 in Holmes County near Massillon.

The injured man is the son of Mrs. Della Busche of 403 W. State St.

Also hurt in the mishap was the driver of the other car, Donald Grossniklaus, 17, of Wilmot, O.; Massillon State Highway Patrolmen reported that the Busche auto was passing another car on the crest of the hill and crashed head-on into the oncoming Grossniklaus vehicle. The Busches were on their way from Columbus to Salem when the accident occurred, patrolmen said.

Mrs. Busche sustained fractures of both legs, concussion, lacerations of the face and scalp and internal injuries, and was taken to Massillon City Hospital where she died two hours later.

Her husband, driver of the car, received several broken teeth, concussion, face lacerations and bruises of the knees and chest. He is in the Massillon hospital.

Grossniklaus, driving alone, sustained a fractured right leg and lacerations of the forehead and was admitted to Millersburg City Hospital.

FBI To Probe Gangster Paroles

Bribery May Have Freed Capone Men

WASHINGTON (U. S. — Atty. Gen. James P. McGranery said today he intends to find out if bribery figured in the now famous case of three paroled ex-Capone gangsters.

He ordered FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to open a new and sweeping investigation into all of the circumstances of the paroles, granted in 1947.

In a formal statement, McGranery said, "This attorney general believes" the whole matter should be fully investigated," adding: "We have decided to reopen the entire case—even at this late date."

McGranery asserted that the freeing of Paul (The Waiter) Ricca, Louis (Little New York) Compagna and Charles (Cherry Nose) Gioe, one-time members of the late Al Capone's Chicago mob, has "been a matter of various charges, including rumors of bribery," during the last five years.

A fourth man, Philip Louis d'Andrea, convicted with these three of extorting more than a million dollars from the motion picture industry, was paroled at the same time, but subsequently died.

A House committee investigated the paroles in 1948 and demanded that the freed men be put back in prison.

The committee said it found no evidence of bribery but expressed the view that "big money"—from an unknown source—was spent to get the men out.

The men were represented in the parole proceedings by attorneys Paul Dillon of St. Louis and Maury Hughes of Dallas, described in the committee report as "personal" friends, respectively, of President Truman and Tom C. Clark, then attorney general and now a Supreme Court justice.

Big Powers Ready For Battle Over Successor To Trygve Lie

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U. S. — The big powers were reported to be day squaring away for a closed door struggle over a successor to U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie — if one can be agreed on.

The Russians are said to be anxious to get Lie—whose extended tour of duty they have bitterly opposed for two years—out of the way as soon as possible.

The Western powers are not in such a hurry, but they feel the problem of whether to accept Lie's resignation must be settled eventually. Diplomatic sources said secret informal talks may commence early next week.

Little has been done about the problem since Lie dramatically tendered his resignation to the General Assembly Nov. 10 under growing pressures of Soviet enmity on one side and U. S. investigations into alleged Reds among American members of the U. N. staff on the other.

Lie said he was offering to step down in the hope that his action might help bring peace to Korea. The bulky Norwegian, who as first named to the job in February, 1946, incurred Russian opposition by supporting the U. N. action in Korea. When his five-year term expired in November, 1950, the powers were unable to agree on a successor and the veto-free General Assembly extended Lie's term a further three years.

All delegations have been so engrossed in the debate and behind-the-scenes maneuvering over the deadlocked Korean armistice question they have had little time for anything else.

That problem will reach its climax Monday when the Assembly's Political Committee is expected to vote on an Indian compromise prisoner of war resolution after hearing final arguments by its author, V. K. Krishna Menon.

The Communists have already turned thumbs down on the plan. Several non-Communist delegations appear to favor keeping Lie at the helm for another year rather than face a show-down now. Lie has not expressed disfavor with this idea.

The family came here to spend Thanksgiving and visit another son of Rev. and Mrs. Wilson, Wayne Wilson, who is seriously ill.

Born in Decatur, Ill., March 23, 1947, the child was the son of Dean and Gwendolyn Crut Wilson. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church at Dalton City, Ill.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. Ashley Wilson of Salem and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crut of Dalton City, Ill.; a brother, Jimmie; and a sister, Dee.

Friends may call tonight at the Stark Memorial. The body will be transferred Sunday to the Tobill Memorial Home in Bethany, Ill.

Salem Man Walks Into Side Of Car, Is Hurt

James E. Crain, 28, of 672 N. Lincoln Ave. was injured at 6:15 p.m. Friday when he walked between two cars into the side of an auto driven east on E. State St. by Edward H. Lesch of RD 4, Salem.

Crain sustained lacerations of the scalp, forehead and mouth, a broken nose and a possible leg injury and was admitted to the Central Clinic where his condition is reported fairly good today.

Lesch told police he was driving in the left-turn lane, preparatory to turning onto N. Lincoln, Ave., when Crain stepped between two cars stopped in the right lane and into the side of his auto.

Pope Names 24 New Cardinals

1 American In Group; Consistory Jan. 12

VATICAN CITY, Italy (U. S. — Pope Pius XII today announced the names of 24 new Cardinals of the Catholic church. They will be elevated to the Sacred College in a great consistory to be held Jan. 12.

Only one American appeared on the list of new princes of the church—James Francis McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles.

The long-expected consistory will bring the death-depleted ranks of the Sacred College to its full strength of 70.

It will be the first since the great postwar consistory of 1946 in which the Pope gave symbolic red hats to 32 prelates in one of the most impressive and splendid ceremonies of the Catholic church.

A native of New York City, Archbishop McIntyre is 66 years old. He has been head of the Los Angeles archdiocese since 1948.

The list also included the name of Msgr. Aloysius Stepinac, archbishop of Zagreb, who was conditionally released from prison by Yugoslavia's Communist government last year after he had served five years of a 16-year sentence for alleged collaboration with the Nazis during World War II. Premier Marshal Tito's government has not permitted him to resume his church post.

The new cardinals are from 12 countries. Eleven of them, however, are Italian, bringing the number of Italians in the Sacred College to 27. Non-Italians will number 43.

Two of the new cardinals are from France, two from Spain, and one each from Brazil, Ecuador, Yugoslavia, Ireland, United States, Canada, Poland, Colombia and Germany.

Chapel Choir
To Appear HereLocal Girl To Sing
With Famous Group

The Capital University Chapel Choir has been booked for a pre-Christmas concert in the First Baptist Church Saturday, Dec. 6, at 8:15 p.m.

Members of the Daughters of Emmanuel of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church are sponsoring the event.

Miss Louise Bauman, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Bauman of N. Union Ave., will sing with the choir when it appears here. She is a student at the university.

Fifty-seven select voices, singing entirely a capella, comprise the concert group, whose reputation has become national in scope through its emphasis on sacred music. Works of such masters as Bach, Palestrina and Mozart are coupled with such well-known moderns as Norman Lockwood, Darius Milhaud, Sigmund Spaith, Franz Bortolussi, and Matthew Lundquist.

The chapel choir is composed of students of Capital University, located in Bexley, a suburb of Columbus. The conservatory, one of the largest in the state of Ohio is ranked among the foremost in eastern United States. Auditions and tests maintain the high professional quality of the choir, despite changes in personnel each year.

For 25 years the choir has been a unit under the direction of Ellis Emanuel Snyder, founder and conductor. Music for the concert tour has to be memorized well before the first concert so that in the last 30 days blending and technique may be perfected. Only last minute manuscript numbers have ever found the choir using music.

I Love To Tell The Story

A business man goes to a convention

The stage coach ground over the mountain road. Few places in the world are said to be more beautiful in summer than the White Mountains of South-eastern Canada and Northern New Hampshire. But the lone passenger missed the beauty of the resort spot that summer day in 1867. He had just attended a session of the YMCA's International Convention at Montreal where he heard a British Army general read a poem and the lines were still ringing in his ears.

Besides managing a machinery plant in Cincinnati, practicing accounting, inventing 700 gadgets and having them patented, composing 2300 musical numbers and publishing 40 song books, William Howard Doane had been an active worker in the Young Men's Christian Assn. since soon after its inception in London in 1844.

The poem England's Delegate Gen. Russell had read was written by the bed-ridden daughter of a London banker. Her name was Catherine Arabella Hankey, but hymn-books usually list her as "Kate."

I love to tell the story
Of unseen things above,
Of Jesus and His glory,
Of Jesus and His love.

I love to tell the story
Because I know 'tis true;
It satisfies my longings
As nothing else can do.

I love to tell the story
For those who know it best
Seem hungering and thirsting
To hear it like the rest.

And when, in scenes of glory,
I sing the new, new song,
'Twill be the old, old story
That I have loved so long.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

God Can Be Your Secret Partner

This is the story of a farm boy who made and gave millions to God. Claud H. Foster of Cleveland grew up on a farm. His family were poor people, his father struggling under the burden of an $1,800 debt he had been carrying for years. At the age of 14 Foster got an idea for helping his father out. He asked permission to plant four acres of potatoes before the frosts were normally over in March. His father was reluctant, but finally gave his consent.

Dr. Peale

The boy not only worked over those potatoes. He also played over them. He was concerned lest they come up too soon. But through work and prayer his efforts were crowned with success. That year, for the first time in many years, the usual killing frost did not appear and Foster's early potato crop brought a premium price. The boy actually earned enough to pay off his father's debt and have something left over beside.

THIS WAS the beginning of a career about which Foster can truthfully say, "Everything I touch makes money." But this successful man modestly takes no personal credit for his achievements. "Something was done for me," he says.

In explaining to a magazine writer who asked for the secret of his business success Mr. Foster declared, "My best advice is that you get in touch with the 'Secret Partner,' because He'll do something for you."

And who is this secret partner, the reporter asked. The answer was simple and direct: "God."

Foster credits his Secret Partner with guiding him to most of his successful ideas. His first invention was a musical auto horn which made him over $100,000. Then, while seeking an idea for an automobile shock absorber, his Secret Partner "directed his attention" to a boat approaching a dock. On that dock, a workman was wrapping a rope around a pile to snub the boat.

This simple observation was his inspiration for the first successful shock absorber for autos. The company he founded to manufacture them grew to the point where he was offered ten million dollars for it.

FOSTER HAS made it a practice to give most of his money away because he feels that he has merely been God's instrument in the making of it. Recently at a Cleveland dinner, he surprised diners by presenting checks totaling four million dollars to representatives of fifteen Protestant, Catholic and Jewish charitable organizations and Western Reserve University. He regarded this act as "paying off God's share in their partnership in the way God wishes it done."

Personally, I am attracted by Claud Foster's simple faith in God as a partner. I have written and preached that the secret of personal and business effectiveness is by establishing such a "merger" with God. I have found so many examples of extremely successful men and women who have practiced this rule that to me there is no doubt of the validity of this spiritual concept. Judging from Mr. Foster's experience, this belief in God as a partner is not impractical.

THOSE TO whom the God partnership idea seems strange will be surprised to know that not a few business men practice this method of living and working. They are not the crack-pot type either, but on the contrary are very hard-boiled, practical men.

I have talked with many of them and their method seems to be:

(1) They develop belief in Divine guidance, that through prayer and meditation they gain insights and illuminations which cause them to do the right thing and make right decisions.

(2) For them God is not a shadow, far-away being in Heaven, but an actual person with whom they can talk and whose presence they feel.

(3) They try to do the right thing as they understand it through their study of the Bible.

(4) They believe God helps those who help themselves; who work hard and depend upon their own efforts.

(5) They practice faith and positive thinking. In this way they develop creative ability and things go well for them in a surprising percentage of instances.

I have studied these "God-partnership men" and have developed a great respect for them. Without a doubt they have found a powerful method of successful living.

McCarthy Plans Probe Of FCC

To Head Senate Investigation Unit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) indicated today the Federal Communication Commission will come under scrutiny of the Senate investigations subcommittee in the new Congress.

As the senior Republican member, McCarthy is in line for the chairmanship of both the investigations unit and its parent body, the Senate Committee on Government Operations.

He told a reporter he feels the investigations subcommittee should make at least a preliminary check into complaints from any senator, Republican or Democrat, to determine whether a full-scale probe is warranted.

McCarthy said he already has received requests from two Republican senators and one Democratic senator—none of whom he named—for an inquiry into the FCC.

He said they wanted the committee to look into what they called incompetence and wastefulness by the agency and "favoritism" in granting licenses to radio and television stations.

McCarthy emphasized that he has "no opinion" as to the merit of these complaints.

The senator also disclosed that he hopes to expand the membership of the Senate investigations subcommittee from seven to nine in the Republican-controlled Congress beginning Jan. 3. He said he also wants to set up a number of task forces within the subcommittee to keep check on government activities in specific fields.

An alert committee and staff "can do an important job in discouraging graft and corruption such as we've had in past years," McCarthy said.

He added that, regardless of which party is in control, government graft and corruption are always possible when "close to 100 billion dollars" is being spent.

On another subject, McCarthy said he will ask Comptroller General Lindsay Warren whether two investigators, loaned to the Senate elections subcommittee by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, will draw salary and expense pay.

McCarthy said he will also ask Warren whether "steps can be taken to recover from the Treasury the very sizeable amount spent (by the subcommittee) since it became obvious that there wouldn't be a session of the present lame duck congress to expel McCarthy."

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.), is investigating charges by Sen. Benton (D-Conn.) aimed at ousting McCarthy from Congress. It also is studying counter-charges by McCarthy against Benton, who was defeated from re-election Nov. 4.

Adore That Mustche

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—When you kid men who wear mustaches, mister—smile, smile, smile.

They can take the ribbing in high good nature, but not their women-folk. There is something about a mustache on the lip of the man who loves that brings out the maternal lioness in a gal.

Her creed is simple: "love that man—adore his mustache." And if you refer ever so slightly to the fuzzi patch under his nostrils she leaps to its defense almost as quickly as if you had trampled one of her children. She counterattacks with fury, with fists, with words. Particularly words.

I found this out by writing a piece questioning the romantic impact of the mustache. My theory was—and is—that a man ordinarily grows a mustache to cure an inferiority complex and that it turns him into a snob faster than if someone gave him a million dollars.

Naturally, I was honest enough to admit myself that personal jealousy had influenced my thinking: The only time I ever tried to grow a mustache it dropped like limp hay.

Well, most of my friends with mustaches were quite tolerant about the whole thing, twirling their small fur forests as they sneered tauntingly: "Snobs are we? Don't you wish you could be a snob, too, junior?"

But the women got angry. They said a mustache is downright lovable.

"Being a woman I would 10 times rather be kissed by a mustache than all the smooth-faced yokels like you or some other men I could think of," wrote a riled lady from Ann Arbor, Mich.

Before I could brood my way out of the inferiority complex this note gave me, another one came from an Akron, O., lass:

"Believe me, being kissed by a man with a mustache isn't at all like being hit in the face with a dry toothbrush. It's more like having the warmth of nature close to you—cavemanish. Warmth is a nice necessity in a kiss."

Well, yes. But you could argue on those grounds that a rubber hot water bag is even more romantic than a mustache.

A gentleman sailor from Boston wired me pityingly:

"Haven't you heard the old saying of Scottish lassies, that kissing a man without a mustache is like eating an egg without salt?"

Another man said:

"I grew a mustache because my wife likes Robert Taylor, and he has a mustache. Now my wife likes me, too—I think, I hope."

Still another fellow threatened to take me before Gov. Dewey of New York, who has packed a mustache for years, and added: "That'll mean Sing Sing Prison for you—so better take care."

There also was a perfect torrent of feminine mail that can be summed up this way:

"I love my husband and am proud of his mustache. And your wife would probably like you better if you grew a mustache too—on top of your head."

Well, okay, so I was wrong. A mustache can be more than a mouse cover. Behind every manly mustache lurks a tender woman's bristly pride.

A balding man needs every romantic crutch he can lean upon. So its a pair of sweeping mus-

South Koreans Have High Hopes For Ike

SEOUL (AP)—Millions of South Koreans seem to think U. S. President-elect Eisenhower is going to drive the Chinese Communists back into Manchuria.

Clarence Rye, official government spokesman, put it this way: "Gen. Eisenhower represents the last great hope of our 22 million people. Ask any man on the street and he will tell you he believes Eisenhower will drive the Chinese Reds completely out of Korea. So the sentiment of welcome here is a strong and stirring thing."

For a fourth straight day, Seoul bubbled with anticipation. More banners than ever spashed across buildings and the gutted skeletons of buildings. Closely spaced national and metropolitan police guarded main thoroughfares.

Youngstown Named Governor Of Samoa

WASHINGTON (AP)—James Arthur Ewing, Youngstown, O., businessman has been appointed and sworn in as governor of American Samoa.

He succeeds John Elliott of Los Angeles who resigned early this month because of illness in his family.

Ewing's tenure in the $12,000 a year post may be brief. The appointment is made by the secretary of the interior and may be rescinded at his pleasure. Gov. Douglas McKay of Oregon is scheduled to take over the secretary's post from Oscar Chapman in January.

The new governor is 36 and a native of Youngstown. Since 1948 he has owned and operated with a brother the Youngstown Steel and Alloy Corp. in Canfield, O.

"CHARITY" ON CANVAS

A widow and her three hungry children huddling forlornly against the marble column of a church! That's the way one artist portrayed "Charity."

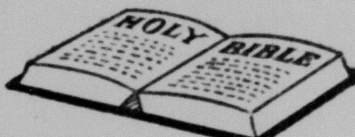

How shall we interpret this tragic scene? Is it symbolic of the down-trodden's faith in the generosity of Christians everywhere? Or is it a bitter study of men's failure to express their religion in acts of love.

The ragged children, asleep after a long and fruitless wait, seem to imply the latter!

Nevertheless, this painting is a bold challenge to Christian stewardship. For the blessed work of the Church, in charity and in the spread of its Gospel, is either limited or expanded by our own outreach of love.

Next Sunday will be Stewardship Sunday in many churches. The physical and spiritual welfare of millions will be at stake when you set your personal goal in weekly giving to the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

New Way Of Thinking

Guesswork about government is the new national game — a good one. It's none too soon to find out what people expect from a new regime.

If they want a continuation of government by corony and special influence, they will get what they want. They always do.

It was not entirely the fault of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations that confidence in the integrity of the federal government was severely damaged. It takes two to make a corrupt deal. There never was any lack of Americans willing and able to apply pressure after March 1933.

Potentially, the federal government can change next January if that is what most citizens want it to do. It is going to be in the hands of men and women whose careers and prestige are firmly established. There is no place in it for political opportunists on the make. If it slips into bad habits, it will be in spite of its principal officers, not because of them.

They have consented to serve because they feel under obligation to serve. Men like Charles E. Wilson and George M. Humphrey are making enormous financial sacrifices to go to Washington. They want to do the best job their fellow citizens will let them do.

But they could be ruined — the nation could be ruined — by a continuation of the cynicism and influence-peddling which have become the curse of government.

The odds are in their favor to save themselves and reassure the nation that it can rise above its weaknesses. All of them are realists. They know how wealth is produced. They have made their own careers. They are not "princes of privilege," a phrase Franklin Roosevelt used to conceal how very much of a prince of privilege he, himself, had been.

Unless they are given a chance to do without interference what they are able to do, confidence in government is dead. Pendergastism is a living faith and creeping socialism is destined to break into a gallop.

Guesswork on government is a kind of self-revelation. It can be as good or as bad as its citizens want it to be. It takes two parties to make a corrupt deal in Washington.

Cabinet Caliber

It is the consensus of those who know the appointees named so far by President-elect Eisenhower that they are of cabinet caliber plus.

With no disparagement of the citizens who have served in preceding cabinets, the Eisenhower administrative group promises to be as distinguished a collection of Americans as could be called together for government service.

It can be assumed, moreover, that they in turn will call into service many other citizens of unusual ability to help run the government.

In all, there are some 1,200 administrative posts to be filled by presidential appointment. What cannot be assumed but must be demonstrated is that a government of outstanding individuals can be turned into an outstanding government. That will be the great challenge to the ability of Dwight Eisenhower after Jan. 20.

If he can coordinate the intelligence and know-how of the kind of people who are willing to work with him in behalf of the United States, he should have one of the most capably administered governments at all time. It will demand every bit of his famed genius for drawing out the best in others by giving them full authority and responsibility.

It was proof of this genius in his military command which became one of the most compelling reasons for supporting his presidential candidacy. It is the demonstration in his choice of assistants that he intends to do the same thing in civilian leadership which is causing last election day to seem further behind than it actually is.

The country already is reacting favorably to the impact of its new leadership.

Via The Recruiting Station

If further suggestions about the now-famous prisoner-of-war issue in Korea are being accepted, why not set up a South Korean recruiting station in each prison compound?

All applications for South Korean military service by captured North Koreans and Chinese would be received cheerfully. This would remove all suspicion that these prisoners may be reluctant to go home because they'd rather be playing acey-deucey in a snug barracks than wriggling through barbed wire, snow, mud and a hail of enemy bullets—any enemy's bullets.

This would be contrary to international regulations of course. The answer to the question that raises is simple: Call it a repatriation station, instead of a recruiting station.

It's easy to buy hamburger, but you still have to search for it—on the inside of a bun.

Our prediction for the coldest winter ever is based on the fact that all winters seem that cold.

France Mollified

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Ike Restores Faith In U.S. Friendship

The mischief that a garbled remark can do to international relations was never more dramatically illustrated than by the way Gen. Eisenhower's conversation with the members of a delegation of visitors at his pre-convention headquarters in Chicago last July was distorted.

Somebody in the Eisenhower staff setup is partly responsible for the fact that the misrepresentation in question was not promptly refuted last summer. For not only has the Communist press abroad constantly exaggerated the remark attributed to Gen. Eisenhower but repeated attacks were made by Democratic spokesmen during the recent campaign as they charged that the general had been discourteous to the French people in his comments at Chicago.

When the general's explicit denial was written to Rene Pleven, French minister of defense, last August no copy of that letter unfortunately was made available to the press in this country or in France.

French newspapers only recently have been able to carry the full text of Gen. Eisenhower's letter which is dated August 13 last. So far as this correspondent has been able to learn the Eisenhower communication has never been published in the United States.

Here is a translation of that letter from the French text:

Denver, Colo., August 13, 1952
"My dear Rene: I am so tired of seeing distorted in the press the so-called declarations that I made on France that I believe I ought to send you this little word to tell you exactly what there is to it.

"In the course of a discussion on the importance of spiritual and moral forces in democracy, I called attention to the fact that some of my socialist friends in France had told me that 'Half the French are free-thinkers.' While this expression was not translated in precise terms of agnosticism or atheism, it implied that about 50 per cent of the French are not influenced by religious instruction and that consequently, the church, in France, is not a particularly useful force in the struggle against Communism.

"Every time that I have repeated that statement, I have invariably added that I did not believe personally that the French people rejected the idea of giving religion a place in a free government, and I have made clear that if unhappily they did, this would explain some of the political troubles in France. Clearly, if there were such a general lack of faith even at the base of religious thought, then the support of any government whatever based on the quality and the dignity of man would be weakened.

"Some newspapers have published that I was personally responsible for the statement that half of France was atheist. That is false. I have never spoken of France other than in affectionate terms in the fervent hope that, spiritually and intellectually, she would rally 100 per cent behind the flag of freedom and against Communism. If she does, she will take again the first place in Europe.

"Quite recently, during a telephone conversation with one of my former collaborators from SHAPE I tried to explain that, but I wanted also to tell you directly because, as my best friend in the French government, that might be useful to you.

"To you personally I send my best wishes and my warm regards. "Give, I pray you, my respects to Mme. Pleven.

Dwight D. Eisenhower
"P.S.—I have found nothing agreeable in passing from the military to the political world. Moreover, I have never worked so hard as now!"

As can be inferred from the foregoing letter, there is an intimate friendship between Gen. Eisenhower and Rene Pleven, former premier who is now French minister of defense.

None of the high officials of France was perturbed by the misquotations which were spread around France by the Communists because they had known Gen. Eisenhower's friendly attitude toward France for a long time.

But these officials were powerless to express themselves to the French people, because the incident had arisen during a political campaign in the United States and they are very careful not to meddle in the political affairs of this country.

The French, therefore, have welcomed the printing at last of the full text of the Eisenhower letter in the Paris press because it sweeps away a source of Communist propaganda which is constantly bent on bringing about friction between France and America.

There is every reason to believe that under the Eisenhower administration there will be a closer feeling and better understanding with France than ever before.

Already in the conferences which Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France has had in New York with his American friends he has learned that under the Eisenhower-Dulles policies the United States did not likely to be found assisting those elements in the world which, by overemphasizing the Tunisian problem, for example, are bent on keeping France and America at loggerheads, when they actually desire to work together as allies.

This is the traditional role of the two countries from the time of the foundation of the American Republic.

Who's Crazy Now?

By TRUMAN TWILL

The next time someone goes into that pitter about all of us being a little bit crazy, we are going to roll our eyes and say, "Duh, but who cares as long as you're good-natured?"

No one minds insanity as long as he isn't afraid of it. The only exception that comes to mind is the rare imbecile who is both happy-go-lucky and loaded with money. This excites envy and leads to complications, such as causing the loon to be locked up in the booby-hatch while pilferers make off with his roll.

But for the most part, a moon-calf with a smile on his lips and a merry eye is allowed to live and let live. With a halfway decent break, the ninnyhammer may develop a reputation as a wit and be offered a contract with the electronics industry.

There is no firm basis for judging insanity as though it were an absolute condition. It is relative to the fear it produces and to the ability of those it terrorizes to deal with it.

The most violently insane man of modern times was a cracked-up artisan named Adolf Hitler who developed a persecution complex, yet wangled himself into a position of political leadership from which he could not be dislodged short of a world war. The guy was a willing from birth and should have been clapped into the hatch before he committed his first murder. But he was a hard zany to put away. He had too big a gang on his side, all of them as added in the attic as he was.

Some of the nicest people we know are luncheads—the amiable variety. They have delusions of grandeur. They get to thinking they are historic personages after the third ice cube.

They collect strange objects and do irrational things. But they never threaten to harm anybody. They giggle and chuckle about their own madness. They have the saving grace of bearing their affliction of dunderheadedness with good humor.

On the other hand we know—and have known—some wonderful people who were dour and skeptical. They never laughed. Their friends began to shun them because they walked too much in the shadows and dark places and never rolled on the grass in the sunlight, giving out yips and yaps of pure delight.

They acquired reputations for being a little bit touched, and a couple of them went the limit and caused themselves to be put away by working themselves into a frenzied lather about certain things which they'd have better left alone.

Even so, they were not a whit crazier than the simpletons whose funny bones saved them from being looked on as sinister characters. If there were such a thing as an absolute test to see who's crazy and who isn't, the laughter would have scored as badly as the groaners.

Moral: You're nuts if you let it get you down.

One theory is that petroleum was originally formed from hydrogen and carbon in the rocks, but most scientists believe the substances which contained the hydrogen and carbon were first plants and animals.

Probably the oldest regiment in the world is the Yeomen of the Guard, a British troop responsible for the safety of the King of England when he is in St. James Palace. Its history dates back more than 450 years.

Europe Train Is Big Attraction

PARIS
The silver- and blue six-car streamlined Train of Europe, which the Economic Cooperation Administration set going almost two years ago, recently celebrated in Vienna the presence of its 5,000,000th passenger.

In its zigzag course it has traveled 20,000 miles. It twice has dashed behind the Iron Curtain.

The train, which is being refurbished preparatory to a tour of Northern France and Belgium this winter, was designed in the Paris headquarters of ECA. It was built in Augsburg, Germany, and first put on public display in Munich on April 20, 1952. Since then it has toured Germany, Denmark, Norway, France, Italy, Trieste and Austria, making stays of three to 17 days in some 50 cities along the way.

Jointly sponsored by the Mutual Security Agency (the successor to ECA in administering United States aid to Europe and the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (OEEC), the train's exhibits concentrate on two important closely related themes: the value of cooperation among the free countries of Western Europe, and the preponderance of power possessed by the free world in general.

The exhibits emphasize that Europe has vast resources: 30 per cent of the world's coal; 41 per cent of the world's iron ore; 26 per cent of the world's copper; and 28 per cent of the world's electric power.

They also point out that Western Europe produces 33 per cent of the world's steel; 30 per cent of the world's cement; 20 per cent of the world's aluminum; 48 per cent of the world's rayon products; and 75 per cent of the world's merchant ships.

As they look at the displays inside and outside the train Western Europeans can see how they can get the most out of their resources and man power by using the modern labor-saving devices that have boosted productivity in the United States and Canada.

In short, the exhibits demonstrate that free Europe has the natural resources and human abilities to defend itself against Communism.

The cars carry messages both inside and out. In the interiors of four cars are mobile displays, mirror devices, picture panels and a miniature movie theater. An additional car houses the power unit and the permanent crew's quarters.

The crew is as international as the theme of the train—members come from France, Britain, Germany, Denmark, Switzerland, Norway, Holland and Trieste and most of them can converse easily with each other in English, French, Italian and German.

In every country the train visits, a team of combination guides and ushers also is signed on.

In every stop in every country the train has been greeted by local officials at a special reception. Usually there is a band and always there are speeches. All the displays, all the sound tracks and all the pamphlets are in the language of the country being visited.

While the train has brought a gratifying response from its visitors unquestionably the most popular exhibit has been the "telephone game." Along the side of one car are nine panels each containing the picture of some prominent national or international figure.

Below these panels are nine telephones.

When someone picks up the telephone he hears the speaker whose photograph is over the booth. This has proved to be a big attraction at the train of Europe and has been remarkably convincing, too.

One Danish lady, after hearing the voice of Ole Bjorn-Kraft, Danish foreign minister, turned to her husband and said, "Imagine a busy man like that taking time to talk to me!"

Naturally, the passage of the Train of Europe through all the countries it has visited has not been unnoticed by the Communists.

In many cities the Communists have conducted poster and newspaper wars against it.

The MSA and OEEC people put up a poster; two minutes later the Communists deface it; two minutes after that the MSA and OEEC people repair the damage, or put up a new poster.

But still the crowds come. In Vienna, the 5,000,000th passenger, a retired bookbinder, 66 years old, won a prize—a motor scooter. His pleasure can be multiplied by more than five million who now have a better conception of the value of cooperation among the free countries of Western Europe.

Health To You

Use of Fluorides Recommended

There are not many people in this world who work hard for something which will cut down on their occupation and reduce their income. This, however, is exactly what the great American dental profession is now doing in its campaign to add a substance to the water supply which reduces dental decay.

There are three ways, it is said, to reduce the rate of dental decay among our people: 1. Increased emphasis on dental health education. 2. Increased emphasis on dentistry for children. 3. Controlled fluoridation of public water supplies. It is the latter which is the subject of today's column.

It was some years ago that fluorides were found to add to the hardness of teeth. Patient study of the effect of fluorides on the teeth was then conducted for many years, and finally the practical value was considered proved and the campaign was begun to fluoridate the public water supply so that tooth decay—and incidentally, the work of dentists in filling cavities—would be decreased.

What can be expected by communities which add fluorides to the water? In Newburg, N.Y., which instituted fluoridation of its water in 1944, there has been a 47 per cent decrease in the rate of tooth decay among elementary school pupils. This figure was obtained by comparing tooth decay of children in a neighboring city, Kingston, in which the water supply was not fluoridated.

Among those children who drank fluoridated water since birth, the drop in rate of tooth decay is even greater—two-thirds. With the overwhelming evidence that fluoridating the water supply cuts down on tooth decay, 367 communities, at latest report, are now receiving fluoridated water.

Curiously enough, this program has been opposed in spite of the fact that the effect on tooth decay is so definite, and that neither the medical profession through its constituted agencies, nor the public health profession, has found any evidence that fluoridated water in the concentrations recommended produces any harmful effects on those who drink it.

Some of us who have spent hours in the dentist's chair having cavities filled would be happy to approve any method which would cut this experience in half.

Easy Money

GENERAL MOTORS, DETROIT.

Gents: You are offering $194,000 in cash prizes for the best essays on the subject "How to plan and pay for better and more adequate roads" and already so many people are thinking up answers at the wheels of autos that traffic has more perils than ever. (The east- and west-bound folks on their way to mail essays won't give the north- and south-bound traffic an inch and vice versa.) I have been able to think of little else but that $25,000 first prize since you announced the $194,000 contest.

Last night I sideswiped a guy at an intersection and we would have been in real trouble except that he was also working on an essay at the time and we towed both cars into a vacant lot and sat in the wreckage while we swapped suggestions on how to bat out a winning letter on how to get more roads with more room.

Of course, you make the essay a little tough. You want me not only to tell how to plan for safer roads but how to PAY FOR THEM! This sort of makes Prof. Einstein a cinch for the big money. But it is nice to know that at least somebody in America wants to know how to pay for something as well as how to get it.

This is the first result of the Eisenhower victory, I guess. You say essays will be judged by originality and sincerity and need not have literary merit, and I get in under the last part of that specification.

You state essays must be in English, which is a handicap, but I can get over it if I try hard. You also specify I must write on only one side of the paper. I have drawn a double line down the middle of every sheet and will keep to the right side as requested.

Well, here is my essay in a few words:

The way to plan for safer roads is get as far off them as possible, so you can find a proper mood for thinking. I would say about fifteen miles in the deep woods or down an abandoned well would be an ideal spot for planners handling our traffic problems. Do not do any planning anywhere near a city street or you will get booted by a taxi and your plans will get telescoped by some trailer truck.

After finding a place away from it all, the best way to plan is to keep the $194,000 constantly in mind. Dough like this is a great help to any planner.

The next step is to figure out how wide a highway would have to be in order to handle the screwball driving, making due allowance for the nonenforcement of the laws, dopey work by prosecutors and the efficiency of political fixers, especially in case of drunken drivers, nitwits operating without a license and people who have been in only a dozen bad accidents in six months.

I think a highway about a mile and a half wide might do. But, of course, to make this safe you would have to exclude trailer trucks. You will never make any highway safe until you build a special overhead one for trucks, interstate buses and police cars.

I would do away with all intersections and make all drivers go in one direction. (If people want to go in some other direction let them go back where they came from.) There are too many people running around loose, anyhow.

How to pay for better highways? Slot machines or raffles. Make every driver who goes ten miles without a dented fender drop a dime in a slot out of gratitude. Or maybe hold a big lottery and give big cash prizes to people who have tickets on any American who finishes a weekend tour without an accident due to driving too fast on super highways. You may get longer essays but none sounder. Send no cash; just a check. Could you use an essay on How to Plan Safer People?

Love and kisses, Elmer.

Army, Navy Will Clash 53rd Time

Truman To See Contest Today

Upset-Minded Irish Will Battle Trojans

NEW YORK (AP)—Army and Navy watching the proceedings, hold the national collegiate football spotlight today as they clash for the 53rd time at Philadelphia. But several other gridiron precincts booked for action are sure to provide some interesting returns.

For in addition to the West Point-Annapolis struggle, Southern California, the West Coast's Rose Bowl representative, takes on upset-conscious Notre Dame at South Bend. Unbeaten Georgia Tech tangles with Georgia at Athens, Mississippi takes on Mississippi State at Oxford, Alabama meets Auburn at Birmingham and Tennessee and Vanderbilt get together at Nashville.

President Truman will be one of 102,000 fans who will jam Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium to see the battle between the Army mule and the Navy goat. President-elect Eisenhower will join many more in watching the game on television. The telecast, via NBC, will get under way at 1:00 p. m., EST, with the game starting 30 minutes later.

Navy is tabbed a seven point favorite to record its third straight victory over the West Pointers. The Middies have won five games, lost two and tied one. Their most impressive successes came against Yale, Cornell and Duke.

Army has triumphed four times in eight games but the Cadets' morale received a much-needed shot in the arm when they came from behind to beat Pennsylvania, the Ivy League champions, two weeks ago.

Southern California rates a touchdown edge over Notre Dame's Irish. But the Trojans weren't forgetting that Frank Leahy's charges turned the tables on a previously unbeaten Oklahoma eleven three Saturdays ago.

The latter part of the South Bend game will be televised via the NBC network. The cameras will pick up the action immediately following the Army-Navy tilt.

A victory for Georgia Tech over the Georgia Bulldogs will clinch the Southeastern Conference title for the Engineers. Tech, which will meet Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl game, has a 5-0 league slate.

Tennessee, unbeaten in four Southeastern Conference games, can take top honors should Georgia Tech falter and the Volunteers defeat Vanderbilt as expected. The Vols are headed for the Cotton Bowl at Dallas where they play Texas Jan. 1.

Alabama has some unfinished business with Auburn. But if they're not looking past today's encounter to their New Year's Day Orange Bowl game with Syracuse, the Crimson Tide should have an easy time of it.

Mississippi, ranked No. 6 in the Associated Press poll, can run into trouble against Mississippi State. Still Ole Miss appears to pack too much offensive strength for its arch rival.

The other games, which—to all intents and purposes—will wrap up the 1952 college football season, are Holy Cross-Boston College, Louisiana State and Tulane, South Carolina-Wake Forest, Virginia-William and Mary, Florida State-Wofford, Rice and Baylor, Oklahoma A & M, Detroit-Houston, TCU-SMU, Tulsa - Texas Tech, Brigham Young and Temple State, West Texas State-Texas Western, Washington-Washington State, Colorado-Colorado A & M and Marquette and College of Pacific.

'Mercy Bowl' Proposed For Oklahoma, MSC

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—The Humboldt Times, in a story today by sports Editor Al Tosado, proposes a "Mercy Bowl" football game, New Year's Day, between Michigan State and Oklahoma with the admission price established as a donation of a pint of blood "for the boys in Korea."

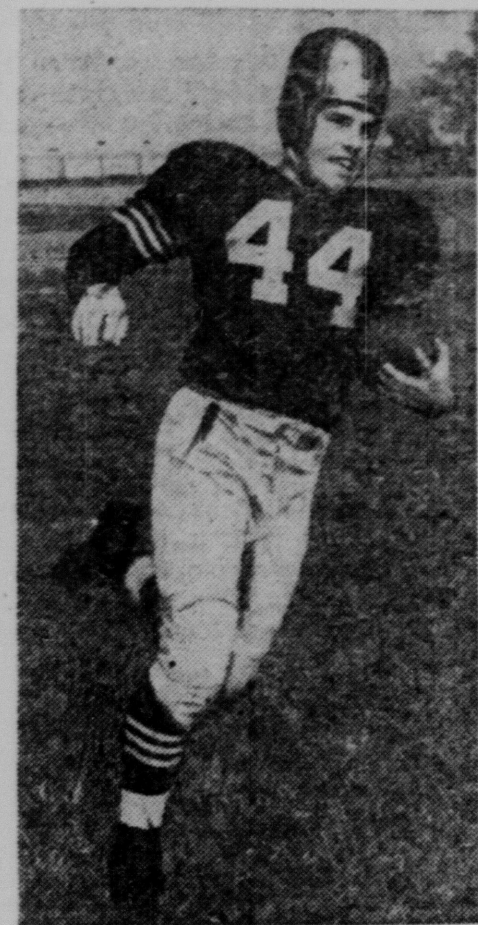

The story suggested expenses for the teams be handled by the alumni associations of the respective schools with the stadium to be determined by agreement.

Sports Editor Tosado expressed belief conference regulations prohibiting post-season games might be modified in view of the worthy cause to which the proposed contest would be dedicated.

Quarterback Jimmy Lear, center, whose passing snapped Maryland's streak, again will pitch for Mississippi State at Oxford. Halfback Jim Sears will continue going both ways for Southern California at Notre Dame.

Browns, Tied For First Spot, Favored By 10 Over Redskins

NEW YORK (AP)—Four games will be played in the National Football League Sunday but only one thing is certain—not more than two teams will be tied for first place in the National Conference.

Polio Strikes Norm Standlee, 49'er Captain

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Polio has struck Norm Standlee, fullback and team captain of the San Francisco 49'ers.

But, it was announced today, no team quarantine has been imposed and the 49'er's crucial game with the Los Angeles Rams Sunday will go on as scheduled. Whichever team wins will vault into a first place tie with the Detroit Lions.

Standlee, nicknamed "Big Chief" because he played his college football with the Stanford University Indians, was confined Friday to the isolation ward in Children's Hospital here.

Doctors said the crippling disease was caught in its early stages, and Standlee is not in any immediate danger of permanent disability. He has no paralysis at present, they added.

Standlee, 33, married with two children, had planned to quit football after the 49'er's game Sunday.

Barons' Goalie Stars

By The Associated Press
The Cleveland Barons, in undisputed possession of first place in the American Hockey League today, are singing the praises of their veteran goalie, Johnny Bower.

Bower, playing his seventh season with the Barons, turned in a brilliant netminding job Friday night as Cleveland blanked the Syracuse Warriors, 6-0. The victory gave the Barons a two-point advantage over the idle Hershey Bears.

Allan Stanley, captain of the New York Rangers, lives in Timmins, Ontario and is the son of the town's fire chief.

All four games have a direct bearing on the championship picture and it could well be that the day's play will end with the New York Giants, Cleveland Browns and the Philadelphia Eagles still tied for the lead in the American Conference.

But such is not the case in the National where the Detroit Lions hold a half-game advantage over the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams, thanks to a 48-24 Thanksgiving Day victory over Green Bay.

The 49ers and the Rams, who won the league title last year, will clash for the second straight week with the engagement scheduled before 60,000 fans at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. A victory for either team will create a two-way deadlock with the Lions. But a tie—something unusual in the pro circuit—would give Detroit lone possession of the top spot.

To maintain the three-way tie at the head of the American Division Cleveland will have to defeat the Redskins at Washington, the Giants will have to down the tough Steelers at Pittsburgh and the Eagles will have to take their second straight from the Cardinals at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

The Browns are favored by 10 points.

They edged by the 'skins, 19-15, last time, but only because of the talented toe of Lou Groza. The big tackle booted four field goals.

Halfback Ken Carpenter and end Dante Lavelli will be back in the Cleveland lineup, providing more scoring punch. Cleveland's only touchdown last time was set up by a 56-yard pass from Otto Graham to Sherman Howard. Howard suffered a shoulder separation on the play and has not played since.

Boston Red Sox Sign Boston U. Athlete

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox today announced they have signed Harry Agganis, outstanding Boston University athlete, and that the tall, heavy hitting first baseman would go South with the club in the spring.

No terms of the contract were disclosed beyond the fact that the Sox said Agganis would not play pro football.

Agganis, several times boomed for All-America recognition as Boston University's quarterback, has been reported on the negotiation list of the National Football League's Cleveland Browns.

Agganis, called by some "The Golden Greek," was injured early in BU's game against Maryland, Nov. 1 and was unable to play much after that.

He will receive his degree from Boston University in January.

Marshall Enters New Conference

Mid-American Adds W. Virginia College

GRANVILLE, O. (AP)—The tough Mid-American Conference took on Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va., Friday night as its ninth member.

The West Virginia school, which had been actively seeking a berth in the league for nearly a year, was in the Ohio Valley Conference until a few months ago.

Athletic directors and faculty representatives of conference schools reached the decision at their annual mid-winter meeting here. The meeting continues today.

Present conference members are Cincinnati, Miami, Ohio University, Bowling Green, Western Michigan, Toledo, Western Reserve and Kent State.

Marshall, which has a stadium seating 10,000 and a field house capable of handling 7,000, now participates in seven of the nine sports sponsored by the conference. It may add the other two, swimming and wrestling.

Whether Marshall will take part in 1953 championship races probably will depend on the schedule it can arrange and also on the minimum number of games required against conference competition.

Gonsalves Wins, Ready For Carter

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Gonsalves was ready to park on lightweight champion Jimmy Carter's doorstep today following his come from behind victory over Orlando Zulueta.

The strapping contender from Oakland, Calif., achieved two of his long sought goals—a Garden and national television show victory—when he edged Zulueta with a second half rally Friday night. That brought him closer to his third ambition, a title crack at Carter.

For a while it looked as if the 22-year-old, third-ranking contender was going down to defeat in his Garden and national TV debut. He appeared awed and couldn't get going. By the end of the third round he was trailing badly and was cut under the right eye and over the left eye.

But the 135½ pound youngster warmed up in the fourth round and from then on outscored his aggressive rival with flashy combination punches to gain the split decision.

Tribe Wants Games To Go Full 9 Frames

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, still smarting from the "canvass battle" in St. Louis, are going to propose that all games go the full nine innings.

Hank Greenberg, Tribe general manager, said the proposal would be made at the major - minor league meeting next week in Phoenix.

At present a rained out game is "complete" if five innings are played.

The Indians asserted last season that the St. Louis ground crew figured in a game the Browns won from the Indians. Trailing at the end of the fifth, the Tribe went ahead in the top of the sixth.

Rain fell before the home team got its licks that inning and the game was called later because of wet grounds.

Cleveland claimed the canvass pu down after the first half of the sixth was leaky and that the ground crew did not get it down fast enough to protect the field.

Navy Strong Favorite To Whip Army Eleven

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The "cribbers" would have been seniors this year, and if that famous—or infamous—episode in Army's football history never had taken place today's 53rd Army-Navy football game might be an entirely different affair.

As it stands, Navy's solid, well-coached team is a strong favorite to rack up its third straight victory in this ancient, colorful series. The odds-makers have established Navy as a seven-point favorite, about as big a margin as they'll allow in this always-unpredictable game.

But consideration of the teams' chances always goes back to the "scandal" which wiped out virtually the whole Army squad just before the start of the 1951 season.

Army still is operating with the remnants of what might have been another great team. Navy, rebuilding its strength under the coaching of a hard-bitten ex pro, Eddie Erdelatz, has come up with a team good enough to merit consideration for an Orange Bowl bid.

If Army had kept such players as Gibby Reich, Gene Filippski, Al Conway, J. D. Kimmel and Elmer Stout, who went on to win considerable glory at other institutions this year, the Cadets would be favored—but not by much.

The Army-Navy game always is that kind of a fracas—where the past - performance charts are thrown into the discard and fired-up athletes play better than they know how.

That's one reason why today's game drew a capacity crowd of 102,000 into Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium and why countless television fans were content to accept the compromise program by which only a few minutes of the Notre Dame-Southern California game were scheduled to go on the air after the end of the big game here.

No other game can offer such a show—the march of 3,800 blue-clad midshipmen and 2,400 grey-garbed cadets into the stadium; the gathering of notables from President Truman on down and the colorful between-halves antics of the student bodies.

The game was scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m., EST. The

Wisconsin Coaches Scout USC Today

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Unbeaten Southern California and upset-minded Notre Dame clash today in a game that gives the Midwest a look at the Pacific Coast's Rose Bowl entry.

The Trojans were anxious to keep their slate clean for their New Year's Day Rose Bowl engagement with Wisconsin, co-champions of the Big Ten. Among the sell-out crowd of spectators will be Wisconsin's coaching staff, taking advantage of the excellent opportunity to scout the Badgers' rivals first hand.

A nation-wide television audience will see the last portion of the contest which begins at 2 p. m. EST. The National Broadcasting Co. has been granted permission to televise the contest after the Army-Navy game, the television game of the week, is concluded. It was expected the television audience would see at least the last 30 minutes of the contest.

The bowl bound Trojans last were beaten by Notre Dame, in the final game of last season, 19-12, at Los Angeles.

The Fighting Irish are facing one of the outstanding defensive units in the nation in U. S. C., which is ranked No. 2 nationally in the AP poll. The Irish are ranked No. 7.

Sister Kenny Knows That She Is Dying

SYDNEY (U)—In the tense, hushed lounge of her Toowoomba home, Sister Elizabeth Kenny lies dying—and she knows it.

Before the iron-willed 66-year-old citizen of the world lapsed into a coma two days ago, she quietly told her doctor, John Ogden "I know now that this is it."

Ironically after her 40-year fight against limb-destroying poliomyelitis, Sister Kenny is now paralyzed on her right side and unable to talk.

The latest bulletin from her Queensland home tonight said "no hope can be held for either complete or partial recovery."

Dr. Ogden, who is a personal friend too, said today: "Sister Kenny has a very strong will to live and until she lapsed into the coma, fought hard for her life. But it needs more than the will to live to beat this illness."

Sister Kenny is suffering from cerebral thrombosis and a few days ago contracted pneumonia, the treatment of which weakened her heart.

Hartwell Will Take Over Detroit Duties

John T. Hartwell would up his duties as Columbiana Council Boy Scout executive today and will assume a new job in scouting Monday.

Hartwell, who came to the country in 1948, resigned Oct. 31, to accept a position as district executive at Detroit.

Ross Ludwig, 44, of Sandusky will replace Hartwell Jan. 1.

FUES FOR STATE PAY

LISBON—An East Liverpool man has filed a suit in Common Pleas Court seeking the right to participate in the workmen's compensation program as a result of an injury received in a fight while employed at a New Waterford garage.

Ward R. Smith filed the suit against the Industrial Commission of Ohio after it refused his claim July 24.

Smith claims he received a broken jaw when struck by another employee while working at the Midway Motor Sales garage Nov. 23, 1951.

LONG TIME TO WAIT—These youngsters are seven months ahead of time, but if they keep their seats, they'll have a fine spot from which to view the coronation procession of Queen Elizabeth II, in June. ## Winn Judd Escape Left Police Clueless

PHOENIX, Ariz. (U)—Winnie Ruth Judd, wily, red-haired trunk murderer, has apparently vanished without leaving a single major clue.

Tired, bleary-eyed police admitted early today they are no nearer solving the riddle of her sixth escape from the Arizona State Hospital than they were Thursday night when she slid out a hole cut in a heavy window screen and disappeared in the darkness.

"Every lead we've run down has washed out," said Herb Barnes, sheriff's deputy in charge of the hunt.

"We have some others we are still working on and we are still checking her many acquaintances."

Officers are operating on the theory she had help and it might have come from friends. They have been unsuccessful in locating two nurses formerly employed at the hospital. They are wanted for questioning.

A tip that the 48-year-old killer of 21 years ago was hiding in a house at Tucson, some 121 miles south east of Phoenix, caused some excitement last night.

Police surrounded the house, but were unable to enter without a warrant. A search of the premises after the owner returned ended the vigil. There was no sign of the missing woman.

Mrs. Judd was committed to the state hospital in 1931 after an 11-hour appeal saved her from the gallows. She had been convicted of killing Agnes Ann Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson in a jealous rage over a mutual suitor.

She dismembered their bodies and sent them to Los Angeles in a trunk and suitcases.

THOSE of you who read the classified ads have a great advantage over those who don't.

You have found over the years

all the terrific bargains are usually offered in this section.

You can see why we always advertise here, first; it is a saving, which we later pass on to you; second, it is a friendly little part of the paper where we can say what we mean, and mean what we say. How many of us could be editors? Few I imagine, but for a few dollars a year I can spout off in your daily paper, and you can either read my words of wisdom or lay me aside with some sort of remark unbecoming to anyone who desires to become an editor. Thanks anyway, but if you need good furniture, and price interests you, see Zep-pernick at either 246 North 15th

Sebring, or 107 East High,

Saar Election Set Tomorrow

Germany And France Feud Over Tiny State

SAARBUECKEN, The Saar (AP)—Voters of this tiny, coal mining frontier state cast ballots tomorrow in parliamentary elections which have dragged French-German relations to their lowest point since the end of World War II.

A new Saar legislature of 50 members will be chosen from a ballot from which all pro-German parties have been barred.

The West German Parliament last week condemned the election as illegal and urged Saarlanders—who are tied economically to France but have strong language and cultural links with Germany—to stay away from the polls or turn in blank ballots. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer also warned that the Bonn government will not recognize the results of the voting.

The French-supported government of Saar Premier Johannes Hoffman has defied the German pleas for an election boycott as well as an underground campaign by pro-German parties. The Premier yesterday predicted a heavy vote would be cast.

The question which underlies the mounting tension here—and threatens any French-German partnership in the projected European army—is:

Should the once-German Saar be returned to the Germans?

Tomorrow's balloting will not decide this but will have an effect upon the final outcome by determining how much support Hoffman's government—committed to separation from Germany—is able to muster.

The tug-of-war over the booming, densely populated Saar—a region of less than 1,000 square miles with some 850,000 people—has agitated French-German relations for a long time. Germany lost the Saar through defeat in World War I, but Hitler got it back in 1935 by a plebiscite. It was detached from Germany again after World War II and established as a politically autonomous state with its own parliament and government.

The Saar's coal and steel economy, however, is definitely merged with France's production machine.

Political parties in the Saar which advocate a return to the German "fatherland" were not allowed to enter candidates in tomorrow's election, the government said, because they refused to comply with a law pledging support to the postwar Saar Constitution. The Constitution proclaims Saar independence from Germany.

Another Judge To Hear Rosenbergs

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman has agreed to step aside and let another judge decide whether a husband-wife atom spy team should die for treason.

The couple, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, are due to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing the week of Jan. 12 for conspiring to give atomic secrets to Russia.

The U. S. Supreme Court has refused to consider the case further. However, the defense is making a final effort to have the death sentences set aside.

Kaufman said he had no prejudice even though he sentenced the Rosenbergs to death. But he agreed to let Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan hear defense arguments Monday.

The Associated Press recently reported incorrectly that the Rosenbergs "maintained that they worked for Russia when the nation was allied with the United States."

Defense Attorney Emanuel Bloch emphasized that the Rosenbergs have never admitted working for Russia but have consistently denied this charge.

In seeking a reduction of the death penalty, Bloch argued that, even if the government was correct in its contention they worked for Russia, that was at a time when this nation was allied with the Soviet Union. Thus, he added, the death penalty was not justified.

Crashes

series of accidents and disappearances which started Nov. 7 when a C119 cargo plane hit a mountain top on a flight from Elmendorf to Big Delta, Alaska. Nineteen men died.

On Nov. 12 a Navy patrol bomber crashed near Shelton, Wash., with the loss of 11 lives. Two days later, another C119 crashed into another mountainside 18 miles east of Seoul on a flight from Tokyo with 44 men aboard. None survived.

Eleven men were lost and seven rescued Nov. 15 when a C46 dove into the Sea of Japan near the coast of Korea. That night, 20 men aboard another C119 disappeared on a flight from Anchorage to Kodiak. Search still is being conducted for that airplane and its human cargo.

The next crackup was at the eastern end of the trail on Nov. 17. A fourth C119 crashed near Billings, Mont., killing half of the 16 men on it. Then, the C124 which was found yesterday disappeared and two days later a Royal Canadian Air Force bomber crashed on Vancouver Island. Eight men perished, two survived.

Finally, the C54 from Anchorage crashed at Tacoma early yesterday. It was loaded with servicemen, their wives and children. They were returning from Alaskan assignments, to belated Thanksgiving dinners.

A mile from their goal, fog and possibly a disabled plane brought them to a fiery end.

A short while after the Tacoma crash and the finding of the C124 the Air Force announced its decision to send a survey team to "investigate the adequacy of Air Force airborne electronics navigation and communications equipment, in addition to all the ground equipment used in navigation."

"In addition, it will investigate briefing and training programs for aircraft crews proceeding to and operating within Alaska who are new to the area."

The announcement said an analysis of recent accidents has not been completed but "it was known that bad weather was a contributing factor in all of the recent accidents," with the exception of the Billings crash.

Brig. Gen. Richard J. O'Keefe, director of flight safety research at Norton AFB, San Bernardino, Calif., has been sent to McCord to take charge of the C54 crash investigation.

Cold And Wet Weekend For U.S. Forecast

By The Associated Press

A cold and wet weekend appeared in prospect for most of the nation.

The late November spell of cold weather and snow extended over wide areas. Temperatures continued much below season levels. The Rocky Mountain region and North Central states were the coldest spots.

Storms in the Southwest and Midwest this week caused 40 deaths, with Colorado reporting 11; Nebraska 8; Kansas 7; Iowa 6; Minnesota 5 and Oklahoma, South Dakota and Texas one each.

Snow, rain and sleet dominated today's weather map—and not much change was the outlook for Sunday.

Snow fell from Iowa and Eastern Nebraska to Oklahoma as southerly winds carried moisture and cloudiness over the cold air. The snow was mixed with freezing rain and drizzle to make driving hazardous from Kansas south to Northern Texas and eastward to Memphis, Tenn.

Rain pelted areas from Central Texas to Eastern Mississippi. Snow flurries continued over the lower Great Lakes region and in the New England states.

Cold spots today included Butte, Mont., with 13 below zero and Laramie, Wyo., with a minimum of -9.

Gas Fumes In Store Make Scores Ill

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—At least 26 persons were hospitalized yesterday after gas fumes seeping through the heating system of a crowded downtown store made scores of employees and shoppers ill and caused a near-panic in a sudden rush for the exits.

None of those hospitalized was in serious condition. Some victims were given oxygen and artificial respiration outside the store. Seven ambulances converged on the scene.

Business at the two-story Sears Roebuck retail store was resumed after the fumes were dispelled. Fire Chief Elgin Wood said a gate in the exhaust pipes of the heating plant had been open, permitting exhaust fumes to enter the hot air system.
